From Trump to Tommy Robinson, we are experiencing the biggest rise in support for fascism, the far right, racism, Islamophobia and antisemitism since the 1930s.

In Britain fascists and racists are mobilising on a scale not seen for decades. We must unite against this threat.

Racism is felt particularly sharply in our educational institutions. Far right groups like Generation Identity are trying to build on university campuses, with pseudoscientific arguments around “identity” and “culture”.

Muslim students are targeted by Prevent, BAME students face institutional racism and EU nationals are having their rights to work and study used as a bargaining chip in Brexit.

We have to get organised.

This meeting, hosted by Student Stand Up To Racism and University College Union activists, will be discussing how we can resist the rise of the racist and fascist right.
