

TUC & SUTR Trade Union Conference and UN Anti-Racism Day

We face a growing racist offensive by Boris Johnson's government with the Nationality & Borders bill attacking the right to asylum and the government's CRED report denying the existence of the institutional racism highlighted by the Black Lives Matter movement.

The government continues to deploy the politics of divide and rule, scapegoating refugees, migrants and the Muslim community.

The government's new police bill targets BLM activists and the GRT (Gypsy Roma and Traveller) community and strengthens police powers despite the ongoing reality of black communities facing disproportionate use of stop and search and deaths in police contact.

On an international scale government's are attempting to deflect criticism of their handling of the COVID-19 pandemic and economic crisis by using racism. Islamophobia and antisemitism are on the rise and the Far Right are a growing threat.

This branch resolves to:

Support the online 'Fighting for Anti Racist workplaces' event on Saturday 5 February 2022, organised by TUC and Stand Up To Racism and send a delegate.

Support and publicise the international day of action to mark UN antiracism day on Saturday 19 March 2022.